VII. PRESIDENT’S REPORT

Updates
• Revision of Music Program and Course Fee

President Eddinger spoke about the emerging creative economy as one of the largest sectors of growth. She also briefly described the history and development of the BHCC Music Program under Performing Arts Department Chair Mark Popeney.

The College’s revised Music Program requires a total of four semesters of applied study (private lessons on an instrument or with the voice). This is in keeping with practice in the first two years of four-year institutions of various types, as well as successful community college music programs across the country. Individualized, directed study on an instrument or voice provides students with the chance to cultivate performance skills that will allow them to pass an audition for entry into a four-year program in music, as well as gain employment during and after their educational career.

These applied music courses are logistically different from most courses at BHCC. Each one-credit course involves one contact hour per week of individualized instruction. While the learning contract model currently in place at the College offers a structural framework for applied music courses, the income generated under the learning contract model (approximately $11 per hour of instruction) is not sufficient to adequately compensate faculty for their time.

Private instruction in music from a professional typically costs between $70 and $140 for each hour of instruction. Most community colleges adopt a course fee to make up this difference. A course fee of $375 will allow BHCC to offer students private lessons on an instrument or voice with a professional musician for $36 per hour while compensating faculty at the contractual rate of $35 per hour. While this compensation is lower than the going rate for private instruction in the Greater Boston area, the stable work provided in an academic environment will allow the College to recruit suitable instructors.
There was opportunity for discussion. President Eddinger concluded by saying that the full range of College fees will be presented to the Board at a future Board meeting. At this time the College is asking for approval of the music fee only.

ACTION: Moved by Melay; Seconded by Young.

“To approve the proposed course fee for courses in the Applied Music Program.”

The Motion Passed unanimously.

Financial Reports

Vice President Pitcher reported that the deficit for fiscal year 2017 may be as much as $2.7 million. The preliminary budget for fiscal year 2018 will be presented to the Board of Trustees at the June meeting. The College anticipates a decline in enrollment for fall 2017 but it is too early to tell. With the fee increase, if enrollment remains flat, the College budget will be balanced. The College is working on the recruitment of non-traditional students to offset the demographic decline in the number of high school graduates across the country.

Vice President Pitcher stated that three major plant fund projects had been substantially completed: the DCAMM funded emergency plaza repairs, the renovation of A-200 and the relocation of the Police Station and the buildout and moving costs related to the Chelsea relocation.

ACTION: Moved by Richards Powell; Seconded by Melay.
