DISH Info
On Sunday, January 2023, Lunar New Year was celebrated. We leave behind the Year of the Tiger and welcome the Year of the Rabbit which brings longevity, peace, and prosperity. 2023 is predicted to be a year of hope!

February is National Cherry Month
Cherries are in season from May-August. Cherries are delicious in baked goods, smoothies, oatmeal, and even on their own! Cherries are high in vitamins C, A, and K and are also a good source of antioxidants.

Spice up your life
Bored with eating the same foods over and over? Try adding different spices to your dishes! The DISH food pantry offers several spice options like ground cumin, chili powder, and oregano which can help you explore new flavor profiles.

Why Eat In Season Produce?

Fruits and vegetable that are in season are picked when they are fully developed. This means that when the produce gets to you, it is fresher, has more flavor, and has more vitamins and minerals than produce that is not in season!
